Equipoise is presented as a derivative of testosterone that is a strong anabolic and a weak androgenic. Equipoise is just as anabolic as testosterone but it is less androgenic than testosterone, therefore they earn less muscle mass than with testosterone.

This steroid increases the number of red blood cells more than other steroids, which is very popular among athletes because it is a powerful muscle builder but provide greater strength and a stroke.

In general, side effects are mild, the steroid has a low affinity to convert to estrogen.

Androgenic and estrogenic side effects are possible only at high doses. Although it is a steroid that can have negative effects on own production of testosterone, which indicates the use of Clomed or Tamoxifen after finishing the cycle, in case when the cycle is of a longer duration.

Half life is great because of it slowly builds muscle mass of good quality, in this case the cycle with this steroid lasts at least 12 weeks to get the desired result.

Optimal dose is 200-600 mg per week. The optimum dose is considered to be 600 mg per week. Considering that it is painful to be injected frequently can be given every 2 days .
